BREAKING A COLT.

[From the Texas Siftings.] Smith had a colt to break, a little roan, half Mustang and half Morgan. He told his wife that there was no sense in beating a colt's ribs in to break it. He had been reading "Rarey on Train-ing Horses," and told his wife to come out in the barn-yard and see how he with kindness could master a colt. The colt was easily bridled and would lead anywhere. Some old harness was gently laid across its back; and though a trifle scared and it put on its Sunday prance, it worked eighteen carats fine. Smith was delighted. He took off the harness and told his wife he was going to ride it. She gave a little scream and pleaded with him to wait till to-

"Never put off till to-morrow what ought to have been done yesterday," said Smith, trying to be funny. "Women are all right in their place, I allus said, but when a man is breakin' a

"Kindness, John, kindness," sald his wife, mildly. "Lookahere Susan J. Smith, I want to know who is breakin' this here colt," he said, in a tone of forced, ingtor calmness. "I suggest that I'm break-in ho —this measley mustang."

"I thought that—that," faltered his Then he peered upward through the darkness and called: Will you state to the audience your valuable thought? I'll get'im framed. Never wanted anything since I was born so bad. Did ye think I didn't git off on purpose f May be you thought that colt throwed me. Do you spose I've monkeyed 'round horses long as I have to let a little calf like that throw me?" he roared. "Susan J. Smith what'd the now affrighted judge, "get up and I marry ye fer? I tell yer to yer teeth light a candle."

I got off. Lots of consolation I can get frum a woman chatterin' away at Carter, sleepily, framing his opinion

Last January they met for the first time since their parting, in Lex-ington, and brewed a convivial bowl in honor of the event. About mid-night, full of affection and enthusiasm.

"Did it hurt, dear?"
Oh, no, no, it was perfectly delightful; never had anything to feel so good in my life," he replied, with infinite sarcasm. "I suppose if this barn'd fall down on me I'd hear ye a cooin' through the fence: 'Did it hurt, dear?' Some women are born handsome an' some ain't got any sense. I've seed lots o' handsome women in my time, but I'm not acquainted with any at present," and with this annihilating represent," and with this annihilating re-floor. He made a leap and got on the colt's At 3 a. m., Judge Carter woke with back. There was a movement of legs, and Smith was sitting on air for a second and then tumbled headlong into the fence corner.

At 3 a. m., Juage Carter woke with that species of thirst which usually comes after Kentucky punch and technically known as "hot coppers." Leaning lightly out of bed to get the "Oh, what?" said Smith, getting up and trying to look unconcerned, while he wiped the blood off his ear.

a man like a guinea hen. No wonder the colt is scared. Poor colty, poor colty, come now," and the colt followed as meekly as a lamb. "May be you wouldn't get on the colt. Susie dear," and he looked very hard at his wife. "Would you, Susie!" he drawled, in killing irony.

"John, please don't get off so quick this time, and—and—if you have to get off very quick, please get off further away from the fence," said his wife, in a scared way.

Smith got on, determined to stick or die. A few people may have an idea what a Mustang Morgan can do, but the majority of humanity will remain in sublime ignorance till time is no more. It went every possible direction except straight shead, and made every possible motion except straight shead, and made every possible motion except a decent one. Smith stuck well; so did the colt. "Tell the neighbors I died game," he called out, trying to get his wite excited. "It's me or the colt, and it's nip and tuck, with the chances in favor of the colt." Suddenly the colt walked straight ahead in a peaceable manner. Smith came riding up to the fence, his face dirty as a fireman's and his ear still bleeding.

"Talk about breakin' a colt with kindness, woman. If I had Rarey here I'd shoot the eternal daylights out'n 'm. A colt wants to be killed, killed, d'ye hear?" He got off and struck it

THE BLAINES AT THE ORIB.

An examination of the Blue Boo the year 1880, a part of which saw Mr. Blaine at the head of the state depart-ment, Mr. Blaine, his son, his brothers, his nephews, and his cousins drew from the United States treasury within a fraction of $30,000. That was not bad for one year. Most of the appointments of Mr. Blaine's relations date back to 1876, but some of them go back to 1871. His brother, Robert G. Blaine, had in that year an appoint at the capital which was worth $1,160. Subsequently the pay was increased, but lately he has been glad to get a place at $1,400. But he has drawn a salary from the United States continu ously for thirteen years. The appoint ment of Major Blaine in the pay corp of the army was effected by a trade with Gen. Grant. It was about the time when Fred Grant was made a ientenant-colonel on Sheridan's staff

The army ring was in full blast, and among other jobs was the increase of the pay corps without any correspon ing increase in the army. Blaine lent his aid to the scheme on condition of putting his brother in with the rank of major. The result is that the pay corps is the most top-heavy branch of the service. There are forty-eight paymasters for an army of twenty-five thou-sand men, to say nothing of the large force of paymasters' clerks, more than thirty being employed in the Paymas-ter-general's office in Washington alone. Taking the thirty thousand dollars of 1880 as a starting point, it is a moderate estimate that the Blaine family has cost the people twenty thousand dollars every year since 1876. One of the most laughable things ly arraigned him and his methods; to which Judge Thurman merely responded.

strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladles like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

THE INTER OCEAN OFFICE, CHICAGO, April 4, 1883.

Dear Sir: You ask my opinion of Compound Oxygen in regard to its efficiency as a healing remedy, and I am glad to be able to reply that I have the greatest faith in it. Several years ago, when lasoring under very serious trouble with my throat and lungs, at the instance of a friend in Boston, who had been similarly affected, I began the use of the Oxygen—began without much faith, but the result was such that I am prepared to recommend its use to all persons similarly affected. At the end of five months I found myself a well man, and ever since I have enjoyed better health and been more robust than ever before. It seemed in my case to strike at the root of the disease and reform the whole system. I will recommend no patent nostrum of any kind, but I deem it a duty to the many afflicted with lung trouble in this country to recommend to them the Oyxgen. Perseveringly and continuously used it works wonders.

Yours truly,

BITTERS

The majority of the ills of the human body arise from a derangement of the Liver, affecting both the stomach and bowels. In order to effect a oure, it is necessary to remove the cause. Irregular and Sluggish action of the Bowels, Headache, Sickness at the Blomach, Pain in the Back and Loins, etc., indicate that the Liver s at fault, and that nature requires assistance to enable this organ to throw of impurities.

Prickly Ash Hitters are especially compounded for this purpose. They are mild in their action and effective as a curre; are pleasant to the taste and taken easily by both children and adulta.
